Treat Her Like a Princess: How to help your girlfriend through cancer

Sassy, determined and unstopably positive, Denise met Stage 3 cancer with the kind of vigor and fortitude that would have a combat Marine quaking in his boots. Throughout her treatment, Denise allowed herself to be filmed by a CNN crew for the documentary Taming the Beast. As she faced seventeen rounds of chemotherapy, a double mastectomy and six weeks of daily radiation, Denise sent a clear message to other women: Not only is it possible to endure breast cancer treatment, but you can emerge on the other side even stronger than before.

Her story will guide and inspire patients and their caregivers while celebrating life and friendships. She outlines how to help the patient and her loved ones deal with the realities of breast cancer and how to maneuver through life's daily demands. Treat Her Like a Princess includes specific suggestions in areas such as planning for meals, scheduling help with children and pets, post surgery support, and ways to celebrate friendships.
